

Pirate Ship-Space Ship

A brother and sister bought a pirate ship from Amazon, but when it arrived it was just a big empty box. There was no pirate ship inside. So, the sister made the box into a pirate ship using scissors and hot glue. Then the brother ordered a pirate hat from Amazon. But, when it arrived it was not a pirate ship hat. It was a space helmet. So, he made the pirate ship into a pirate ship-space ship. It could fly to the moon and also sail to an island in the ocean. Then the brother and sister built jets on the ship, but instead of fire coming out there were bubbles. Next, they ordered an American Flag from Amazon to bring to outer space. When it arrived it was not an American Flag, it was just one empty sparkling water can. They were going to return the can, but they decided to add it onto the jets as a bubble booster. Now the pirate ship-space ship needed a chair to be finished. So, the brother and sister ordered the last thing they needed from Amazon. When it arrived, it was not a regular chair, it was a rocking chair and they could not hook it onto the ship. When they went over waves the rocking chair would slip and make a wild ride! When they went to outer space they still could not hook the rocking chair in so they went floating up, off and away in the ship! They finally figured out how to hook the rocking chair in. But, when they did, it made the bubble boosters go crazy because they accidentally attached the chair to the bubble booster cord. The bubble boosters went so crazy that they covered the planets in bubbles! Suddenly, a space scientist on earth figured out that all the planets were covered in bubbles and the scientist told the brother and sister to come back to earth. When they landed back in the ocean in their pirate ship-space ship, the scientist said, "It's dinner time, time for Taco Tuesday!" The brother and sister said "Ok, coming Mom!" and they devoured their tacos on their beach island!
